This fund offers grants up to $1,000.00 to Princeton undergraduates in good standing for academically oriented projects. Academic projects may be related to the applicant's course of study or funding may be used for courses or academic help not available at the University.

DEADLINES AND PROCEDURES

This fund involves an interview after the submission of the written application. Submit this cover page along with your application to Joanne Sismondo, Murray-Dodge Hall. Please submit two copies of all materials, clipped together (NOT STAPLED).

The fall deadline for applying is November 1. The spring deadline is March 1. You may apply at other times if your project requires funding on a different schedule.

Questions should be directed to Joanne Sismondo sismondo@princeton.edu (258-5460).

APPLICATION COMPONENTS

1. Please attach a detailed DESCRIPTION of your project. Include the name of the program (if any), the nature and length of your project, how you became interested in it and what you will accomplish by participating in it. It is not necessary to include a lengthy bibliography.
2. Please attach any published material from your academic program which includes information about the application process and the cost of the program. Also submit a RECOMMENDATION from the faculty member supporting your project. This recommendation is important in the evaluation process so be sure that it accompanies your application. For outside organizations, submit a copy of your LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE if you have received one.
3. Please attach a BUDGET or list of expenses. Also indicate the amount you are requesting/receiving from other resources for your project. If you receive funding from other sources after you receive a Fred Fox Fund grant, please notify Joanne Sismondo.
4. Please attach a RESUMÉ or a page describing your activities, employment and achievements.
