

Friday, April 17

9:00 to 10:30 a.m.

What are the United States' basic moral responsibilities to promote religious liberty abroad?

Thomas F. Farr, Georgetown University

Daniel Philpott, University of Notre Dame

10:45 to 12:15 p.m.

What are the state's basic responsibilities with regard to coercion of belief and practice, and manipulation/unfair proselytizing of people within churches and religious communities?

Richard W. Garnett, University of Notre Dame Law School

Kent Greenawalt, Columbia Law School

2:00 to 3:45 p.m.

Given that the Founders believed in and, in fact, built what Frank Sorauf once described as an "implicit Protestant establishment," what are the coherent possibilities for an "originalist" jurisprudence of the Religion Clauses in the 21st century?

Gerard V. Bradley, University of Notre Dame Law School;

Princeton University; Witherspoon Institute

Steven D. Smith, University of San Diego School of Law

4:00 to 5:15 p.m.

The right to conscientious objection and the right not to be coerced into immoral cooperation with injustice.

Christopher Tollefsen, University of South Carolina

Saturday, April 18

9:00 to 10:00 a.m.

(continued) The right to conscientious objection and the right not to be coerced into immoral cooperation with injustice.

Christopher Wolfe, Marquette University

10:15 to 12:00 p.m.

How does the increasing globalization of economic life and culture, and the burgeoning power of transnational institutions present unique challenges to religious liberty in the 21st century?

Jose Casanova, Georgetown University

William Inboden, Legatum Institute

Conference discussants to include:

Peter Berkowitz, Hoover Institution

Paul D. Clement, Georgetown University Law Center

Donald L. Drakeman, Princeton University

David F. Forte, Witherspoon Institute and the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, Cleveland State University

Robert P. George, Princeton University

Hon. Neil M. Gorsuch, U.S. Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit

Kevin J. "Seamus" Hasson, The Becket Fund for Religious Liberty

Ken I. Kersch, Boston College

V. Phillip Munoz, Princeton University and Tufts University

Paul E. Sigmund, Princeton University

Hon. Diane S. Sykes, U.S. Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit